Alisia Jackson is the Founder and Executive Director of Judah Ministries Inc., where she leads a comprehensive portfolio of programs and services designed to advance community sustainability. She is deeply committed to improving the lives of individuals and families through education, access to resources, and empowerment.

A native of the Martindale-Brightwood neighborhood in Indianapolis, Indiana, Alisia developed a keen understanding of the needs and challenges facing inner-city communities. Inspired by the positive influence and example set by her parents, she dedicated herself to serving the very community that shaped her. After a distinguished twenty-six-year career with Eli Lilly and Company, she retired in 2016 to fully pursue her calling in servant leadership.

Under her guidance, Judah Ministries Inc. has expanded its reach and impact across the United States through a community-centered model. The organization's efforts include the Pride Academy Early Learning Institute, weekly food distribution, homeless support initiatives, clothing and toy drives, a citywide Easter celebration, back-to-school backpack and bicycle giveaways, and a financial empowerment education series. Alisia is also a selfless educator and the author of three-book children's series Super Saturday Savers, which focuses on early financial literacy.

Her work is anchored in five key focus areas: Pride Academy Early Learning Institute, Pride Ignite College & Career, PAK Enrichment Camp, Crime Prevention, and Judah's Outreach and Community Engagement. Through these initiatives, Alisia continues to share her passion for economic empowerment, generational uplift, and sustainable community development.

Alisia holds a bachelor's degree in Chemistry, she further pursued studies in marketing and business administration at Indiana Wesleyan University and earned an associate degree in Early Childhood Education. When she is not working—an uncommon moment—she enjoys camping, reading, walking, and spending quality time with her family. Alisia has two certificates in CFRM and WFCI from IU School of Philanthropy.
